

Canada failing its women, U.N. says

Report singles out high poverty rate

up what they've been arguing for years — that cuts to social programs are hurting women.

Toronto Star March 6/03

It is no accident that Canadian women are not getting the legislation they need.

The UN says that women need 33% representation for their voices to be heard. In Canada, women cannot get over 20% of the seats because of our dysfunctional voting system.

Countries such as New Zealand, Germany, Scotland, Wales and most European countries routinely get 30-40% women representatives naturally by using a form of proportional representation.

These are stable, economically successful countries. Ask your MP or member of provincial parliament to support voting system reform.

And join our citizen's campaign to change the voting system.

www.fairvote.ca

Canada failing its women, U.N. says

Report singles out high poverty rate

up what they've been arguing for years — that cuts to social programs are hurting women.

Toronto Star March 6/03

It is no accident that Canadian women are not getting the legislation they need.

The UN says that women need 33% representation for their voices to be heard. In Canada, women cannot get over 20% of the seats because of our dysfunctional voting system.

Countries such as New Zealand, Germany, Scotland, Wales and most European countries routinely get 30-40% women representatives naturally by using a form of proportional representation.

These are stable, economically successful countries. Ask your MP or member of provincial parliament to support voting system reform.

And join our citizen's campaign to change the voting system.

www.fairvote.ca

Women in National Parliaments: Percentage of Women in Lower or Single Houses

Data from the Inter-Parliamentary Union (30 June 2007)

Compare the three remaining major democracies using single member plurality (or first-past-the-post) systems:

Canada	20.8%	(rank = 48th in the world)
United Kingdom*	19.7%	(rank = 52)
United States	16.3%	(rank = 67)

...with major Western democracies using various forms of proportional representation:

Sweden	47.3%
Norway	37.9%
Finland	42.0%
Denmark	36.9%
Netherlands	36.7%
Spain	36.0%
Belgium	34.7%
Austria	32.2%
Iceland	31.7%
New Zealand	32.2%

* Unlike the British Parliament, the Scottish and Welsh assembly elections use proportional systems and have 33% and 47% women respectively.

Join Online
www.fairvote.ca

Our growing national network includes citizens from all regions, all walks of life, all points on the political spectrum and supporters of all parties. Our common goal: a fair voting system and true representative democracy for Canada.

www.fairvote.ca/women

Women in National Parliaments: Percentage of Women in Lower or Single Houses

Data from the Inter-Parliamentary Union (30 June 2007)

Compare the three remaining major democracies using single member plurality (or first-past-the-post) systems:

Canada	20.8%	(rank = 48th in the world)
United Kingdom*	19.7%	(rank = 52)
United States	16.3%	(rank = 67)

...with major Western democracies using various forms of proportional representation:

Sweden	47.3%
Norway	37.9%
Finland	42.0%
Denmark	36.9%
Netherlands	36.7%
Spain	36.0%
Belgium	34.7%
Austria	32.2%
Iceland	31.7%
New Zealand	32.2%

* Unlike the British Parliament, the Scottish and Welsh assembly elections use proportional systems and have 33% and 47% women respectively.

Join Online
www.fairvote.ca

Our growing national network includes citizens from all regions, all walks of life, all points on the political spectrum and supporters of all parties. Our common goal: a fair voting system and true representative democracy for Canada.

www.fairvote.ca/women